Foreword

The year 1975 is the 450th anniversary of the Anabaptist movement which emerged in 1525 during the early days of the Reformation. As this volume illustrates, that small beginning has had far-reaching effects. The Anabaptist-Mennonite movement 450 years later has encompassed the globe. The notions of a voluntary, believing, disciplined brotherhood, of love and nonresistance, of separation of church and state, and of the missionary mandate continue to have relevance for the church and world today.

This volume seeks to highlight the worldwide nature of the brotherhood by including the Directory of World Mennonite and Brethren in Christ Churches, compiled by the Secretariat of Mennonite World Conference. The North American experience of brotherhood is reflected in a more complete listing of inter-Mennonite projects.

The primary purpose of this volume is to reflect the life and structure of the Mennonite Church, one of the bodies which has emerged since 1525. As in previous volumes, included is information on the congregational, regional, district, North American, and worldwide dimensions of the Mennonite Church. This volume follows the basic format of the 1974 issue with a few changes designed to help the readers use it with greater ease.

First, the basic information regarding the congregation has been centralized in the Conference and District Directory of Congregations. The reader can now open to the name of the congregation and make a phone or mail contact without needing to move back and forth to other sections in the volume. Accordingly, the Regional Directory of Congregations has been streamlined. Second, the Ministerial Directory appears in two narrow columns per page instead of one wide column. This will enable readers to locate information about ministers with greater ease.

New in this volume are four overseas Mennonite churches that were formed in 1974. They are Belize Evangelical Mennonite Church, Costa Rica Mennonite Conference, Mennonite Evangelical Church (Italy), and Vietnam Mennonite Church and are found in the Overseas Mennonite Directory.

As the Statistical Section indicates, the Mennonite Church experienced growth in 1974 in a number of areas. (1) Three hundred and twenty-one more teachers and 1,046 students were involved in the Sunday school program. See Table VIII. (2) In summer Bible schools, 598 more teachers and 2,772 students were enrolled. See Table IX. (3) Per member giving increased $13.97 to $211.21. See Table XII. (4) Total membership in North America reached an all-time high of 101,747 up 1,568. See Table VI. Membership of the Mennonite Church and Related Overseas Churches now stands at 126,574. See Table V. World Mennonite and Brethren in Christ Church membership now stands at 558,255. See Table VII.

The Mennonite Yearbook is developed as a tool to facilitate the life and work of the Mennonite Church. It is hoped that this volume will successfully assist congregational members, pastors, conference workers, Board and institutional staff members in their ministry in the brotherhood. Concerns, responses, and suggestions for improvement of future annual issues are always welcome. Feel free to write or contact the editor at any time.

The Mennonite Yearbook could not be published without the dedicated word and cooperation of many persons. Pastors and other congregational representatives, conference secretaries, Board and institutional staff members, and others have contributed much of their time and energy in supplying full and accurate information. To process all the information gathered from many sources around the church and to print this volume involves many weeks of concentrated work by a number of the Mennonite Publishing House staff. To these the brotherhood is grateful. Many thanks! — JEH

450 Years After Zürich

By John A. Lapp
Dean, Goshen College

We will not hide them from their children, but tell to the coming generation
the glorious deeds of the Lord, and his might,
and the wonders which he has wrought.

These words from the Seventy-eighth Psalm are part of a recitation performed at the major festivals of the ancient Hebrews. In this way they kept alive the memory of God's action in their behalf. Deliverance, liberation, salvation were historic events to be commemorated. These recitations also included the memory of unfaithfulness, when "they had no faith in God and did not trust his saving power."

Christians have tended to deemphasize the continuing work of God towards His people. On the one hand, they have poured all their sense of history into Jesus Himself; on the other hand, they have spiritualized the faith itself so that historic events tend to be given little significance.

If biblical faith means anything, it is that as God acted throughout biblically recorded history, so He continues to act in mercy and judgment.

January 21, 1975, is the 450th anniversary of the rebaptisms in Zurich which gave rise to the Swiss Brethren, sometimes called Anabaptists and whose descendants include modern-day Mennonites. That event in 1525 marked the schism in the Swiss Reformation between the Protestants following Ulrich Zwingli, the established governments, and a small group who depended on Scripture alone to determine their faithfulness. The Hutterian Chronicle, a sixteenth-century document, in biblical fashion recorded the conviction that "because God wished to have his own people, separated from all peoples, he willed for this purpose to bring in the right true morning star of his truth to shine in fullness in the final age of this world. . . . In order that His holy work might be made known and revealed before every man, there developed first in Switzerland an extraordinary awakening and preparation by God."

During this anniversary year it is indeed appropriate to remember how God acted. What shall we remember? How?

"The Glorious Deeds of the Lord"

There are many anniversaries. They come and go so quickly that few have major significance. Anniversaries are often so distorted by commercialization or sentimentalization that their impact is more harmful than helpful. Church-related affairs are no exception. If a commemoration is to have any merit, truthfulness, and honesty it will have to be in the all-pervasive qualities.

Early Anabaptism was phenomenal in its growth. Almost every new adherent became a missioner in turn. Two months after the beginnings in Zurich in 1525, Wilhelm Reublin baptized sixty persons in the city of Waldshut, one of whom, Balthasar Hubmaier, baptized 300 more the following day.

The real point, however, is that recognition of the events in and about Zurich in 1525 cannot be seen as just another anniversary. The people who led the movement had a clear perception that this was an awakening "prepared by God." To look at 1525 in 1975 is to see God at work stimulating a new chapter in the history of the household of faith.

There are two dimensions of these events that might be the center of our attention.

First is the courage and faithfulness of the fathers and mothers of the movement. Hero-worship and martyrology are out of fashion these days. Yet it is impossible to understand any history, least of all holy history, without a firm grasp of the personalities involved. Conrad Grebel's baptism in Zurich, Georg Blaurock's preaching at Zollikon, Michael Sattler's conferring at Schleitheim, Felix Manz's drowning in the Limmat River, and Hans Denck and Ludwig Haetzer's translation of the prophets into German were the actions of flesh and blood. These were people of heroic faith and sometimes faltering hope. They loved, disputed, suffered, and died in the process of restoring what they considered to be the true church.

That the flame ignited at Zurich continues means that hosts of people during the intervening centuries kept the faith, passed it on to new people so that the roll call of witnesses includes thousands from every continent around the world. Not only do Mennonites recognize Zurich as the cradle of their movement but so also the large Baptist communion and indeed all groups which affirm a Free Church polity.

These, however, were no ordinary people. They possessed a set of ideas that structured a new community which widely influenced the course of modern history.

The second dimension to be recognized in 1975 is that set of convictions and insights that constitute the believers' church. It is only possible to mention the major themes found in the Swiss Brethren movement: congregations formed by persons who voluntarily covenanted their common obedience and mutual concern together; a commitment to follow Christ in every activity of life — for as one of the fathers said, "No one can truly know Christ, except he follow Him in life"; a commitment to evangelize (the only non-Catholic missionaries of their time); a recognition that true discipleship would necessitate suffering; an ethic of love and nonresistance that included a "yes" to helping fellow humans and a "no" to violence and war. George H. Williams in The Radical Reformation said these ideas represented a new kind of Christian who "was not a reformer but a converter, not a parishioner but . . . a sojourner in this world whose true citizenship was in heaven."

"Tell to the . . . Generations"

A major concern in 1975 is how to tell the story of 1525. Perhaps the most important prerequisite for looking again at 1525 is a sense of perspective.

Here the beginning and end is not to memorialize heroic Swiss, Germans, and Dutch but to recognize that God in His grace once again found responsive people. This kind of story can only be fully understood by the "intelligence of faith" which links Zurich to preceding events in Rome, Corinth, and Jerusalem and to succeeding events in Holland, Russia, United States, Canada, India, Zaire, Paraguay, and Japan, to mention only a few cities and countries. Holy history didn't begin nor did it end in Zurich in 1525.

Only slightly less important is the observation that the Swiss Reformation took place in unique historical circumstances. We can only distort the meaning of the church and God's work in the world if we do not recognize the differences between life in the 16th and 20th centuries. North American Mennonites are no longer Swiss Brethren. Anabaptist was a term of considerable meaning in the 16th century. It is an anachronism if applied to church life in 1975.

Saying this does not mean that there is nothing to learn from the 16th-century experience. Studying the 16th-century church can stimulate fresh outpourings of the Holy Spirit. It can also generate a repentant spirit for the manifold failures to maintain the vision and ideals of our spiritual ancestors.

The purpose of Psalm 78 was to help the Hebrews understand not only how God acted but to remind the faithful who they were. In a similar way renewing our acquaintance with the beginnings of the Swiss Brethren movement can help Mennonites to sense again who they are. Jurgen Moltmann, the German theologian of hope, was recently suggested that "if Christians are to know again for what reasons they are here, they must also rediscover who they really are."

The 16th-century forefathers of modern Mennonites would not want to be the objects of denominational pride, perhaps not even to be considered the founders of a new movement. I well remember an elderly Franconia Conference bishop years ago saying that "we ought only to follow men as they follow Christ." That sentiment, which would have pleased the 16th-century fathers and mothers, should characterize whatever is said and done in 1975.

To recall 1525 in Zurich should be a means of leading us to Christ. Recall Menno Simons' favorite Scripture, "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." That foundation, a powerful springboard in the 16th century, should be no less for the late 20th century.

The Mennonite Church 1975

By Newton L. Gingrich

Moderator, Mennonite General Assembly

Nineteen-seventy-five is the year for the biennial Mennonite General Assembly. It will be held August 5-10 at Eureka College, Eureka, Illinois. A central concern will be to discover what is happening in the Mennonite Church. This will be discovered through program reporting, policy discussion, issue considerations, workshop experiences, inspirational services, activity displays, and informal fellowship.

God Is at Work

It has been my privilege to visit a number of conferences. There are many evidences of God's working. Lay people are increasingly involved in the life of the church. Women's participation in annual meetings and service on Boards and committees is gaining acceptance. Believers from varied backgrounds and experiences are freely contributing according to the gifts they possess. Some conferences realize active youth participation in the annual sessions and various programs throughout the year. There is genuine concern to discover what the traditional beliefs of the church mean for today.

There is growth in our ability to handle touchy issues with a more relaxed and searching stance. One is always impressed in a number of localities with the maturity of program administration and decision-making. Increasingly there is concern that every member develops a sense of ownership in the church and its programs with opportunity for significant involvement. Some communities are enjoying inter-Mennonite relationships with a variety of fellowships and conjoint projects. With degrees of intensity there is positive and rewarding action in evangelism and church-planting. The family spirit is prevalent among us. A common emphasis in many annual conferences in 1974 was the family and the family of God. "I Belong to the Family of God" could almost be considered a theme song.

More Work to Be Done

But there are areas where we need to allow God to do a greater work in our midst. More awareness of and a sense of responsibility for the Mennonite Church in North America with its varied Boards and programs is necessary. Local congregations need to consider how they relate to the total ministry of the church. An essential aspect of being a responsible member is to sense that they are part of a North American body with a worldwide mission. Praying for the program personnel, continuing to give that portion of our income we believe God would have us do, providing suggestions to those serving on the various administrative bodies, and encouraging individuals to give a period of service in various types of church assignments would bring forth a resource that is not being fully utilized.

There is also much room for increased confrontation as brothers in search for answers as we seek to fulfill our mission. Personnel needs exist in mission, service, and pastoral leadership. Progress is being made but there are good reasons to believe there are many gifts in the brotherhood yet untapped. Giving continues to increase but barely keeps pace with inflation and with little or no funds for expansion. We have not reached a responsible level according to our affluency. Pastoral support has been strengthened in many areas of the church but it seldom reaches the amount considered proper for educators and administrators.

Increasingly we need to become aware of the universal church. We have brothers in many areas of the world community. To realize our oneness in Christ and to share on a church-to-church basis presents a continuing challenge. The process of discernment and decision-making at times leaves something to be desired. There is evidence we are learning to live with our differences but we need to learn more capably how to enable one another, to "grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

Work in Progress

Some significant developments are taking place. Organizational streamlining is being done relative to the Assembly Arrangements Committee. Latins and blacks are more directly becoming part of the church. The Minority Ministries Council has been merged with Home Missions. Associate secretaries from that part of the church are being selected to serve in the General Board office and other vital areas in the program of the church. Steps are being taken to provide Spanish literature for those congregations in North America desiring the same.

It is hoped that position papers will be finalized on the role of women in the church and the question of abortion at Assembly 75. Task forces have been appointed to give leadership to a continuing study process on biblical interpretation and the Holy Spirit in the life of the church. The need for a greater unity in budgeting, financial forwardings and askings has been recognized and long-term steps are being taken in that direction.

As a Mennonite Church we have a number of significant involvements in inter-Mennonite projects and organizations. These include the Council of Moderators and Secretaries, Mennonite Central Committee, The Foundation Series, Mennonite World Conference, and many others. Increasingly our church will experience mutual blessing through such sharing.

Canada and United States Relations

We are also seeking to find a meaningful relationship between the church in Canada and the United States. Although all the various headquarters offices are in the United States, steps are being taken to give the church more visibility in Canada. It will also provide a two-way channel as a Canadian office is established. May the realities of the kingdom of God be great enough to bridge international boundaries.

Freedom in Christ

Freedom is an important ingredient of our individual and corporate lives. We need to let Christ help us experience liberty in Him and find a truly freeing experience as individuals and communities of His people. We need to permit the freedom of His Spirit to do for us what He desires, even though it may be in settings different from what is known traditionally. If we let Him, He will enable us to experience growth in Christian community with a more dramatic witness and service relationship with society about us.

Mennonite Church Regional Boundaries

Regional Directory of Congregations

This directory lists Mennonite congregations according to the region in which they are located. Within each region congregations are listed alphabetically by state or province and city. This listing includes all Mennonite congregations — those who are members of district conferences, as well as those who are not related to any district or conference. It also includes congregations that do not participate in a regional planning group or send delegates to the General Assembly.

Regional geographical areas, officers, and committees, as well as a summary of the conference affiliations of congregations, are noted with each region. Information regarding district conference organization, bishops/overseers, and congregations can be found in the "Conference and District Directory of Congregations" section of this volume.

The design of this directory is to provide information regarding the meetinghouse of the congregation. This should make it possible for readers to locate or call the meetinghouse. The location of the meetinghouses is not a mailing address. All mail should be directed to the first person listed under that congregation in the "Conference and District Directory of Congregations." Persons desiring to get in touch with the pastor, or contact person of a congregation, should follow the information provided in the "Conference and District Directory of Congregations." Effort was made to secure complete and accurate information about each congregation listed. An example of a complete congregational listing is as follows:

Conference and District Directory of Congregations

This directory lists Mennonite congregations alphabetically by name of conference or district and congregation. Conservative Conference congregations are listed alphabetically by country and state. Some of the conferences and districts do not affiliate with regional planning groups nor do they send delegates to Mennonite General Assembly.

The design of this directory is to provide all the information needed to contact one person (pastor or contact person) for a given congregation by mail or phone without needing to consult other sections of this volume. This person is noted with a number 1 after the ministerial status code. Ordained persons active in the congregation are also listed with each congregation. These carry a number 2. Ordained persons retired or without congregational responsibility are listed in paragraphs with the respective conference and district organizations. The address and telephone listed is that of the pastor or contact person rather than the meetinghouse. Meetinghouse information is provided in the "Regional Directory of Congregations" section of this volume. An example of a complete congregational listing is as follows:

name of congregation	cong. number	cong. code	dist. conf. cross ref. no.	city, state/province	region	cong. members
Conrad Grebel	(01234)	(o)	(17)	Lombard, IL	(IV)	76

Church Communities

Church communities is a broad designation for the house churches and intentional communities within the Anabaptist-Mennonite movement. Communities listed relate in a variety of ways to the Mennonite Church, as well as other churches and movements. Membership within each community is handled in a variety of ways. Some members also participate in other conference congregations. Communities which have an "zero" membership simply indicates that no membership was reported.

Directory of Mennonite Church Organizations

The churchwide mission of the Mennonite Church is carried out through the Boards listed below. These are supported by contributions from the membership, with exception that the program of the Mennonite Mutual Aid Board is supported by enrollment in their services and the program of the Mennonite Publication Board is supported by purchases of periodicals, books, and curriculum materials. The 1975 combined askings of the four Boards is $4,027,829. If contributions are given according to the schedule of askings, out of each church dollar given, the Mennonite Church General Board would receive 3.4¢; Mennonite Board of Congregational Ministries 6.2¢; Mennonite Board of Missions 69¢; and Mennonite Board of Education (schools) 21.4¢.

The information provided for each person is as follows: name, address; telephone; status and function; date of birth; date of ordination and/or license as deacon, minister, and/or bishop/overseer; congregational name and number (if person carries function No. 1); conference affiliation, and region in which the person lives. Codes used in this listing are noted below.

Every effort has been made to secure complete and accurate information for each person listed. However, the situation of persons may change or the information was not available at the time when it was gathered. Books to Read During This Anniversary Year

Anabaptism: Neither Catholic Nor Protestant by Walter Klaassen

In the early 1500s the Anabaptists took a separate road that was neither Catholic nor Protestant. Klaassen presents the Anabaptist stand in a general way, then, in five chapters, as Radical Religion, Radical Discipleship, Radical Freedom, Radical Theology, and Radical Politics. He sums all this up with a larger view and a look at what this could mean for Christians today. Included are brief biographical sketches of the leading Anabaptist leaders and a study guide. Conrad Press. Clothbound $4.95; paperback $2.95.

The Anabaptist Vision by H. S. Bender

The Anabaptists viewed Christianity as a radically different way of living: the transformation of all of life based on the teachings and example of Christ; a voluntary membership in the kingdom, based on conversion and personal commitment; and Christian love and nonresistance applied to all human relationships. Here Bender defines the spirit and purpose of Anabaptism. Herald Press. Pamphlet 75¢.

Brothers in Christ by Fritz Blanke

In 1525, 450 years ago, the first small congregation of Anabaptists was formed in Zolliken, Switzerland. With this book, the reader can participate in the day-to-day decisions and activities of this group, which soon experienced severe persecution and martyrdom. A revealing look into the beginnings of Anabaptism. Herald Press. Paperback $1.95.

Confession of Faith by Peter Rideman

This, the oldest Anabaptist confession of faith, was written in 1545 while Peter Rideman was in prison. It covers a wide area of Christian belief and doctrine, and contains much instruction for living as Christ's disciples. Those who wrestle with such contemporary issues as governmental authority, warfare and taxation will find that the earliest Anabaptists did likewise, and had strong biblically based convictions. Plough Publishing. Clothbound $5.00.

An Introduction to Mennonite History Edited by C. J. Dyck

This is a readable history of all Mennonite and Amish groups that trace their origins to the Anabaptist movement. The authors introduce the basic historical and doctrinal developments among Anabaptists from the beginning up to the present time. Herald Press. Clothbound $6.95; paperback $3.95.

The Theology of Anabaptism by Robert Friedmann

When the Anabaptists were not being persecuted, or trying to escape their persecuters, they were teaching others their biblical beliefs. They never found time to develop a system of theology. Nevertheless, says Friedmann, their lives and statements reveal an "implied theology." Dr. Friedmann, a long-time student of Anabaptism, shares the theology he found revealed in the words and actions of Anabaptists. Herald Press $7.95.
